

Benedictine Ball Committees Plan Big Social Event

Entertainment Promises to Be Very Pleasant—Decorations and Other Committees Are Busy and Report Great Progress.

The Benedictine Ball to be held at the New York State armory on Tuesday night will be one of the best arranged affairs of its kind ever held here. The committee in charge are working zealously and report great cooperation upon the part of the public, which means success. Paul Zucca's orchestra and John Erno's Imperial Broadcasting orchestra are holding rehearsals in preparation for the event and from the music standpoint a real treat is in store.

Among the many committees planning their part is the men in charge of the decorations. The armory drill shed promises to present a very pleasing and artistic sight to the many who will attend the ball. The decorations which will be entirely original in character and of a very beautiful combination of colors, will form a background for the guests assembled and the spacious drill shed will be converted into a ballroom of exceptional beauty. James R. Higley is chairman of the decorating committee and he will be assisted by Frank L. Mather, N. D. J. Murphy, Thomas Goldrick, Albert N. Cook, Edgar T. Shultz, Addison Freer, Walter J. Miller, Thomas J. Kennedy, Joseph R. Bennett, William Leetive, James T. O'Reilly, William J. Dwyer, David Long, Eugene B. Carey, John R. Rice, John P. Whalen, Allen Baker, and William C. Leonard.

The Floor Committee
The following members of the floor committee will be present to see that all are comfortable: Hon. Edgar J. Dempsey, chairman; Senator A. H. Wicks, C. Ray, Everett, Harry E. Schrick, Bernard Feeney, Henry Forst, Martin P. Netter, John Cordts, James A. Dwyer, William C. Hussey, Dr. S. T. Levitas, Dr. Harry Meinhardt, Samuel Jacobson, J. David Schenck, Morris Samter, Samuel Bernstein, Dr. Charles Lahl, Henry Darrow, David Burgevin, Chester Osterhout, John W. Eckert, David Terry and David Ebel.

Colonial Choristers
The entertainment committee is pleased to announce that a feature attraction of its forthcoming ball will be the Colonial Choristers, a quartet of well known Kingston singers, composed of Madeline Wicks, soprano; Jeanne Mills, contralto; Joseph Craig, tenor; and Vernon Miller, baritone. These artists have been giving considerable time to the preparation of a program of popular selections which the committee feels will be thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The Colonial Choristers have been before local audiences for the past two years and always have been enthusiastically received. They have the benefit of regular rehearsals under the expert coaching of Lillian Hamstreet of New York, a recognized authority in ensemble singing, who numbers among her accomplishments the famous Hamstreet Singers and The Contraltos.

Ricobono Sisters
There will also be two charming numbers arranged by Emilia Ricobono, a member of the Al Golem Persian Entertainers, who has traveled the country from coast to coast and is well versed in staging attractions that hold the most interest for audiences, who appreciate novelties. This talented performer will take part in the program herself, assisted by her equally gifted sister, Miss Ottilla Ricobono, who is also a member of the Persian Entertainers, and a very clever performer. Miss Ottilla, well known in this city, having been graduated from Kingston High School, has a wide experience in the theatrical business.

The Ricobono sisters besides presenting an act of their own, for which a most artistic setting will be made, are to present another offering in which 40 others of Kingston's younger set will take part. All in all the two numbers arranged so far promise to occupy a very prominent part of the program to be staged at the Easter Monday Ball for the benefit of the Benedictine Hospital.

Miss Ottilla Ricobono is truly an artist in every sense. She is endowed not alone with the talents of an accomplished musician and dancer, but also works with skill as a designer. Miss Ricobono's technique as an artist with the brush and pen is clearly manifested in the posters which advertise the Benedictine Ball about Kingston. They can be seen in various store windows. Ottilla studied art at Kingston High School and will be remembered as one of the most accomplished students of her class.

Violent Earthquake Recorded.
New York, March 21 (AP).—A violent earthquake, probably south of Central America, was recorded on the seismograph of Fordham University last night. It was announced today. The first tremor was at 9:42 p. m., and the greatest intensity was reached at 9:55. The tremors continued until 11:30 o'clock.

Mexican Rebel Chief Executed

General Aguirre Found Hiding in Forest After Minor Engagement—Court-martial Ordered, With Photographs Before and After Death.

Mexico City, March 21 (AP).—General Jesus M. Aguirre, chief rebel commander in the province of Vera Cruz, was executed at La Magras, Vera Cruz province, at 7 a. m. today after a court-martial.

The Mexican government today acknowledged that a counter-offensive by rebel troops threatened Mazatlan, Sinaloa, one of the country's few west coast ports.

At the same time there was disturbing reports of other rebel movements, among them a flanking movement against the Calles army at Durango City and an impending attack at Naco, Sonora.

Such was the nature of the government acknowledgment and of the reports of other rebel activities that announcement of the capture in Vera Cruz of General Jesus M. Aguirre, leader of the revolt in that state, failed to instill much cheer at Chapultepec Castle.

General Aguirre was found hiding in a forest after a minor engagement in which several of his followers were killed. General Acosta, his captor, notified President Portes Gil of the arrest and said he was taking Aguirre to headquarters at Almagras for court-martial.

Summary Court-martial Ordered.
The president instructed General Acosta by telegram to give Aguirre the most summary and quickest court-martial possible according to Mexican military law and to be certain to get pictures of Aguirre before and after the execution to prove beyond a doubt that the rebel was dead.

Should the rebels capture Mazatlan they would be in a position to follow the west coast railroad down through the state of Nayarit and into Jalisco, where Guadalajara, second city of Mexico, is located. From Guadalajara a rear movement against the Calles army in central Mexico and against Mexico City itself easily would be possible.

Disguised by Rumors.
Reports of rebel capture of Durango City were without confirmation, but they served to bring disquietude to Chapultepec circles.

In the meantime General Calles was organizing his forces at Torreón, Coahuila, in preparation for the pursuit northward of the forces of General Gonzalo Escobar.

Escobar was reported to have fled north to Jimenez, about half way between Torreón and Chihuahua City.

It was said Escobar was running low on fuel for his locomotives, a factor which might lead him to make a stand with his forces somewhere south of Chihuahua City.

Rebel Chief Inspects Troops.
Juarez, Chihuahua, March 21 (AP).—General J. Gonzalo Escobar, revolutionary commander in chief, arrived at this border city today for an inspection of troops.

But Whether Miss Morrow Will Wed Him in Mexico or United States Has Not Yet Been Determined.

Mexico City, March 21 (AP).—Anne Morrow is to be a June bride. Miss Morrow and her fiancé, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, have authorized an announcement that they will be married in June. They have not decided, however, whether the wedding will be in Mexico or in the United States.

The trousseau for the bride to be is being prepared and it is understood here the colonel is making his final arrangements for the wedding during his present stay in the United States.

Cases Tried And Settled in Court

The negligence action brought by William P. Spratt, Jr., against the General Kopolite Company, Inc., which was taken up for trial Wednesday afternoon in Supreme court was concluded at noon today and sent to the jury.

Mr. Spratt seeks to recover damages to his Flint car which he alleges was damaged in a collision at Milton in June of last year when it came in contact with a White truck of defendant. He alleges that the truck was parked near the center of the road, without light at the rear to give warning. Defendant alleges that the truck was stopped on the highway while the helper of the truck was examining a road sign for directions and also claims that the rear light was burning but that it may have been dimmed by dust which had collected on the lamp from Long Island City.

Arthur E. Kaley appears for the plaintiff and Frank W. Brooks for the defendant.

Cases Settled.
A jury was taken in No. 264, Anna Evans against J. Edouard Levine and C. George Behre, an action for damages to personal property. The action grows out of an accident at Highland in which a car of defendant is alleged to have damaged a property of plaintiff when it left the road. A. W. Lent appears for plaintiff and Louis Halle for defendant.

No. 265, Samuel E. Mott of Esopus against Clara Stowe, an action on note, was announced as settled. M. O. Auchincloss for plaintiff and Brinnier & Elsworth for defendant.

No. 385, Walter M. Hallenbeck against Oren W. Rose, an alienation of affections action, was also announced as settled. A. J. Cook appeared for plaintiff and F. W. Brooks for defendant.

On the call of the calendar No. 400, Howard Irwin against Uriah P. Decker, a negligence action, was marked as settled. C. A. Hoornbeek appeared for plaintiff and Woody & Warrington for defendant.

Harry Lazarus Was in New York
So Kingston's Busy Street Liar Built Up a Fine Tale About the Sale of Two Local Theatres—When and If It Happens It Will Be in The Freeman Says Mr. Lazarus.

The fact that there have been some negotiations for the purchase of the Walter Reade string of theatres, which includes the Kingston Theatre and the Broadway Theatre in this city, to the Fox interests has again been made the basis of a string of assertions by Kingston's Busy Street Liars. Among other details given by the B. S. L. is a positive assertion that the sale has taken place and Manager Harry Lazarus "gets through on Saturday." Other minute details as to the future may be obtained from the B. S. L. at any time, in any quantity and to suit any taste, by any person desiring them, and will be thrust upon those not desiring them at all times and places when and where the B. S. L. can obtain an audience.

The theatres in Kingston have not been sold to the Fox interests or to anyone else. They may never be sold. They may be sold at some time. "When and if they are sold, or any other thing of any consequence occurs in connection with them," says Manager Lazarus. "You will read about it in The Freeman, but you will not read about it in The Freeman until and unless it is true."

Which will not halt the B. S. L. in his activities for one minute. Mr. Lazarus was in New York on Wednesday. So much of the B. S. L. tale is true. Mr. Lazarus frequently visits the metropolis, but it does not follow that he sells a few theatres every time he goes down to look the big town over.

Traffic Signals Are All Changed

In the story regarding the change to be made in the traffic signals by the board of public works on Wednesday it was stated that the new 4-second blank interval between the red and green lights had been tried out on the traffic signal at Pearl street and Maiden Lane. This was an error as there is no such street intersection. The signal was located at the junction of Pearl street, Clinton avenue and Albany avenue, near the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The change to the 4-second blank period has now been made on all of the traffic signals, including the signals at the Rondout Creek Bridge.

AUTO BACKED DOWN HILL INTO FIRE HYDRANT
An automobile driven by Edward Schramm of Rifton backed down the Rogers street hill on Wednesday evening and crashed into the fire hydrant at the corner of Rogers street and Broadway, snapping it off. Mr. Schramm had parked the car, but evidently the brakes became released. The water department was notified and shut off the water at the broken hydrant, which was flooding the street.

France Provides National Funeral For Marshal Foch

French Chamber of Deputies Passes Bill With Spaces for Figures—Nominally Left Blank So That Every Necessary Expense Might Be Included—First National Funeral Accounted Soldier.

Paris, March 21 (AP).—The funeral of Marshal Foch has been set for next Tuesday. The body is to lie in state under the Arc de Triomphe for 24 hours previously. It has not yet been decided whether the religious ceremony shall be held in Notre Dame Cathedral or in the Chapel of the Invalides.

The French Chamber of Deputies voted with raised hands today the special bill providing a national funeral for Marshal Foch.

The bill was passed with spaces for figures purposely left blank so that every necessary expense might be included. It went through almost immediately and without discussion, the Communists remaining silent throughout.

French newspapers today appeared with heavy black mourning borders. All carried long biographies and appreciations of the dead leader with fervent expressions of sorrow.

One pointed out that although the marshal's only son, René Foch, was killed at the beginning of the war, his name would not die. The marshal's son-in-law, Colonel Fournier, has already obtained the authorization of the minister of justice for his four children to bear his name and that of their grandfather in addition.

Gen. Pershing Visits Mar.
General John J. Pershing, commander of the A. E. F. during the war, visited the bier of Marshal Foch this morning. He arrived at the Foch home shortly after Georges Clemenceau, France's war-time premier.

The body of Marshal Ferdinand Foch lay in peace in a simple bed in a sparsely furnished room of his stately old mansion near the Invalides Palace.

A guard of honor, soldiers who marched with the dead marshal in victory and in the dark days preceding triumph, took possession of the courtyard in front of the old soldier's home.

Parisians passed hats off and with heads bowed. The nation meanwhile planned its sixth national funeral, its highest honor in death for the man who did so much for it during his life.

The body was clad today in the marshal's field uniform of horizon blue. On its breast the ribbons and medals of almost every order of prominence in the world reposed. Among them was the star and grand cross of the Legion of Honor. This last decoration was pinned on the marshal's coat by General H. J. E. Gouraud shortly after death late yesterday.

Hands Clasp a Crucifix.
The hands are crossed on his breast, and clasp a crucifix placed there by Foch's chief of staff during the war, General Maxime Weygand. Over one leg was thrown the cloak of the marshal worn at his entry into Strasbourg, November 28, 1918. On a little night table at his side were decorations, among them the marshal's Croix de Guerre, and also a font of holy water.

The great soldier's features are calm and serene, though displaying with all the air of energy which marked them when alive. Death has erased the lines of suffering, and he seemed today as one asleep. The only unfamiliar thing about it was his moustache, which he himself clipped and shortened only yesterday.

While the marshal slept his last sleep in his own little bed plans were made to give him the state funeral within the power of the nation. The government, responding to a general desire, decided that he was to have the rare distinction of national obsequies.

This is an honor never before paid to a soldier of the French republic. In its history but five others have received it, the Presidents Carnot and Faure; the scientists, Pasteur; the statesman, Gambetta; and the poet, Victor Hugo.

May Be Buried With Napoleon.
It was proposed that the marshal pass the night before his interment lying in state beneath the Arc de Triomphe beside the unknown soldier's tomb—the great nameless hero—expected the body would be placed in the Invalides before the tomb of Napoleon Bonaparte, and there was a feeling he would be laid for his final sleep in one of the niches of the crypt where the body of the great Corsican rests.

But these and other details were to be decided on at a cabinet meeting. While the government desired to bury Marshal Foch in the Invalides, nothing could be arranged officially because the family, before consenting desired to be sure there was nothing in the marshal's will and papers providing for the contrary.

Certain things the marshal said in his last days have given rise to the belief in some quarters that he desired to be interred at Tarbes, in the Pyrenees, the town of his birth.

Story of Marshal's Last Hours.
Members of the household told over and over again today the story of the marshal's last hours. Yesterday morning he had seemed better and showed some signs of his old cheery self. He smiled and talked to his doctors.

Study State Courts, Urges Roosevelt

Asks Legislative Authority to Appoint Commission, With Broad Powers—Reorganization of Existing Court Systems Suggested.

Albany, March 21 (AP).—Governor Roosevelt, in a message prepared for submission to the Legislature today, called for the appointment of a temporary commission to study means to improve the entire state system of the administration of justice.

The message follows: "I have already addressed your honorable bodies in regard to the broad necessity for the improving of our whole system of the administration of justice. Many of our citizens, with some right, that substantial justice is difficult to secure because of the costliness, the delays and the lack of simple business efficiency."

"I recommend the authorization of the appointment of a temporary commission broad enough in scope to cover the whole field of study and more specifically:

"To make a study of the business of the courts and how it could be simplified and expedited. This covers, among other things, the availability of setting up new courts or re-arranging the system of old courts, especially the lower courts in large centers of population."

"To examine into the advisability of creating a permanent commission or judicial council, or some other agency which would make a continued study of court decisions and the existing state of the law and recommend, from time to time, removal of anachronisms in the law and obsolete and burdensome requirements."

"In regard to the personnel of the proposed temporary commission, I can only say that I feel very strongly that laymen should constitute a large proportion of the membership, and that it is personnel should be removed wholly from the field of partisan politics."

Stand Helpless as Passengers Burn

Nineteen Accounted For in Head-on Collision in Ontario—Flames Held Wrecked Recorders at Bay—Passengers Trapped in Wooden Coach.

Perry Sound, Ont., March 21 (AP).—Survivors of the wreck of two Canadian national express trains near here told today how they were forced to stand helplessly by while men, women and children burned to death.

Nineteen dead have been accounted for and a score or more were injured. Wrecking crews were searching the debris for other bodies. The wreck occurred when train Number 3, eastbound, and Number 4, westbound, collided head-on near Dro-court, a siding, 45 miles northwest of Perry Sound, shortly before dawn yesterday. It was not until late in the day that the extent of the disaster was known because of poor wire facilities.

The greatest loss of life was in a Colonist's coach near the head end of the westbound train, which caught fire immediately after the crash. The flames held would-be rescuers at bay while passengers, trapped in the wreckage of the car, perished.

The Colonist's coach was of wood and was provided with a stove. It is believed that the returning of the stove set fire to the coach.

The engines of both trains were piled in a tangled mass of wreckage. A baggage car on the east bound train was wrecked, while the Colonist car and baggage car of the westbound train were wrecked. The next two cars were derailed.

The westbound train running by a switch was given by some of the passengers as the cause of the collision, but A. E. Warren, general manager of the central division of the railroad, said the cause had not been determined.

New York City Pays Awards

A deputy controller of the city of New York has been in Kingston this week paying the warrants issued to various claimants for the diversion of the waters of the Schoharie river by the Gilboa dam for the benefit of that city. Among the more important awards was that to the Middleburgh Light, Heat & Power Company of $17,500 the company's hydro-electric plant at Middleburgh seriously having been impaired by the diversion. Judge Clearwater and Judge Grant of Stamford represented the company, and William H. Grogan, assistant corporation counsel, represented the city on the trial of the claim which involved the taking of the testimony of several engineers and expensive hydraulic experiments.

Explosion Entombs Scores of Coal Miners

More Than 300 In the Workings When Explosion Occurred—Sheet of Flame Shot 300 Feet In Air—Later 175 Made Their Way Safely Out Of Mine A Mile From Where Explosion Took Place.

Parnassus, Pa., March 21 (AP).—Scores of miners were entombed by an explosion in the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company near here today. Approximately one hundred men had escaped two hours after the blast and company officials said there was a possibility that many might find their way to safety. More than 300 miners were in the workings when the explosion occurred. Of these, the greater number were believed to have been at work near the main heading and rescue workers feared that they were near the center of the explosion.

Those who escaped came from an entry about 5 miles from that known as the Kinloch entry, the center of the operations.

The explosion occurred shortly after 7 a. m. the day shift had entered the mine not long before, some said there were two blasts, one immediately following the other.

A sheet of flame shot 300 feet in the air, witnesses said, at the main dipple at Kinloch. Six men at work near the dipple were injured, but were not in a serious condition.

More Miners Come to the Surface.
As the hours passed, more miners arrived at the Kinloch entry after coming to the surface at the distant mouth known as the Valley Camp entry.

In trucks and on foot, small caravans of the fortunate came into the little mining village of Kinloch where loved ones waited them in anxiety. Women and children whose husbands, fathers and brothers yet were unaccounted for questioned avidly those who came from the Valley Camp entry.

Rescue Crews Enter Mine.
After being held back by flames and smoke, rescue crews entered the Kinloch entry shortly after 11 a. m. Others were at the Valley Camp entry to go down into the pit from that section. Two crews, one from the Union Collieries Company and another from the Inland Coal Company, went down the Kinloch opening. Rescue workers said there was grave danger from gas and after-damp.

One Body Found.
One of the rescue men who went down with the crews in the Kinloch entry came back and reported one body was found in the main heading. The slope, he said, was fairly clear and there was no fire. George McCaa, United States Bureau of Mines safety expert, however, ordered hose lines laid in readiness to combat fire should it break out anew.

The rescue man returning to the surface reported that the air was bad below. The effects of the fumes upon him were plainly visible. Eleven of his companions were attempting to push on into the workings.

Another rescuer returning from the Valley Camp entry and reported that on that side the mine was clear for a distance of 1,000 feet.

A belief was expressed that the explosion resulted from an accident to a mine car. Company officials were told that a car had fallen into the slope just before the explosion. It was believed that a spark had been struck, igniting gas at the Kinloch entry.

Windows in the little mining village were shattered and the force of the explosion was felt over a wide area. The main tunnel, constructed of sheet steel, steel beams and heavy timbers, was reduced to debris.

The force of the blast at the mouth twisted huge girders like bits of wood, hurled a mine car from the slope and into the shattered tunnel, and virtually tied knots in the rails over which the mine cars ran.

Emergency Hospitals Established.
Rescue men were pouring into the town from surrounding towns in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The United States Bureau of Mines had its full strength in this disaster in action. The Red Cross and Salvation Army workers set up emergency hospitals and had food ready for those needing it.

Report 175 Men Safe.
Harrisburg, Pa., March 21 (AP).—Official reports to Walter H. Glasgow, secretary of mines, said that 175 men had made their way safely out of the Kinloch mine near Parnassus, Pa., in West Moreland county this morning.

These men came from the actual workings of the mine a mile or more from the place where the explosion took place. They said they hardly knew there was an explosion.

AFRICAN WRESTLING SCARCELY SPORTING

Timbuctoo, French Sahara (AP).—Catch-as-catch or "free style" wrestling, as practiced by the negroes here, has become a little bit too "free" to suit even the hard boiled officers of the Foreign Legation, who generally act as referees. Recently two giant negroes were having it out on a sand mat with the sun hovering around 110 in the shade. One of the wrestlers, after gouging, scratching and tripping had been resorted to, suddenly sank his teeth deep into the other's shoulder.

This brought a warning from the referee, who hardly had time to deliver it when the culprit's eyes were blinded by a handful of sand flung by the victim of the bite. That was too much for the referee, who disqualified the negro, in spite of the fact that the latter explained he had had no desire to blind his enemy but merely wanted to sprinkle sand on him so as to be able to get a better hold, as he was perspiring so freely.

That is why Doctors have prescribed it for a quarter of a century. As all drug stores.

The bill recommended for passage by the governor would compel each board of election to place complete returns for their district in the mails not more than twelve hours after closing of the polls to be forwarded to the secretary of state.

Believe New War Inevitable

Nanking, China, March 21 (AP).—War between the Nationalist government and the faction controlling the Wuhan cities of Hankow, Wuchang and HanYang is believed here to be inevitable.

President Chiang Kai-Shek this evening issued an unofficial statement reviewing the situation in the province of Hunan, severely condemning Generals Hu Tsung-Fu and Yeh-Chi and other supporters of the Wuhan group.

Chiang declared that the National government of China was a "revolutionary government and would not hesitate to use revolutionary methods."

This was considered as an indication that active measures against Wuhan may be instituted shortly.

Marshal Li Chai-Sun, governor of Canton, and one of the most important leaders of the Kwangsi group, has been detained by authorities here but is stated to be in no personal danger.

Prince Olaf Weds Princess Martha

Oslo, Norway, March 21 (AP).—Olaf, Crown Prince of Norway, and the Princess Martha, niece of King Gustav of Sweden, were married today in the presence of royal kindred and amid the acclaim and rejoicing of the Norwegian people.

The wedding took place in the ancient Church of Our Saviour according to the simple Lutheran ritual. The spectacle was made impressive by the distinguished company of guests and the patriotic music of the organ and special choruses.

Princess Martha was given away by her father, Prince Carl, brother to the Swedish king. Prince Olaf was attended by his English cousin, the Duke of York, second son of King George. The service solemnizing the union of the handsome princely couple was conducted by the bishop of Oslo, Johan Lunde.

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

By CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

Harry Manning, 32 year old chief officer of the America, had one of the outstanding roles in the rescue of the Florida. He commanded the lifeboat which took the crew off the disabled ship. Fried again pays tribute to the courage and coolness of his young officer and says if any recognition is given the men of the America it should go to the members of the lifeboat's voluntary crew.

By CAPT. GEORGE FRIED.

CHAPTER XXI.
Chief Officer Harry Manning is 32 years old. He is a graduate of the New York State Naval School. On January 22, when he commanded the lifeboat from the America and rescued the 32 members of the Italian freighter Florida, he demonstrated his courage and ability. American crews have made rescues before but the one executed by him and his shipmates was accomplished so efficiently and expeditiously that it will always stand as the work of seasoned experts and an example to the seafarer of every nationality.

That sufficient provisions and water were in the boat, a compass, several lengths of rope, axes, flashlights, a hand lantern and buckets for bailing. Every man wore a life belt. But it is always wise to be over-armed and make certain that everything is in satisfactory condition. Lifeboat Number One was decided upon as it was nearer the bow from which the crew would have to pull on their start across the waters for the Florida.

Our plans for the boat getting away worked perfectly. However, it had not progressed very far before the unexpected happened. White caps suddenly began to appear on the heavy swells. Then came a snow squall. The wind was increasing in force. An hour after the boat had left the side of the America the wind was blowing at hurricane velocity and a blinding rain was pelting the rescuers.

The visibility was poor as the boat started from the Florida. A flashlight was blinking. Mr. Manning evidently was trying to get some message to me but we could not make it out, due to the rise and fall of the boat. For a moment I thought something was wrong. The America was being maneuvered. I was trying to watch every detail and every man in sight to make sure he was carrying out his orders. The America was giving but slight pro-

"He went to the fore-castle to choose his rescue crew."

The brotherhood of the sea knows no race, creed or color. When an SOS is flashed the hearts of the thousands aboard ships quicken and every one within a reasonable distance is ready to sacrifice his life if necessary. When I decided to go to the aid of the Florida every man aboard the America was on tip-toe. The human machines of the vessel functioned quietly and smoothly. Every man wanted a chance to go out in the first lifeboat but the selection was left entirely to Mr. Manning.

The chief officer of a vessel has the privilege and I might say, it is really his duty if he is physically able, to command the rescue boat. Mr. Manning was ready. I knew he was deserving of the chance. He is daring but not foolhardy. In a crisis I felt he could control himself and be as calm as the seas were wild. So he left the bridge and went to the fore-castle to choose his crew from the volunteers. The men who decided to wage everything against tremendous odds included W. K. Clark, junior engineer. Aloys Wilson, boatswain's mate; Salvatore Bracco, storekeeper, who acted as the interpreter; John Talis, sailmaker; Victor Wallock, master at arms; Walter Tretin, quartermaster; and John Harrobin and Fonce Kellam, able seamen.

As we proceeded toward the Florida, Mr. Manning and I discussed briefly the plan of rescue but our plans were necessarily dependent upon the situations as they arose. The most important thing was to see to our little boat, but what little there was it helped. I could see them struggle. The oars dipped in unison but the waves often pushed them back further than any headway they had made.

On our ship everyone was silent. I have been asked how I felt at that time. It would be hard for me to describe my emotions. I was not nervous. Nor was I excited. I do know that when the ordeal was over and my men were safely aboard, I was almost on the point of collapse from the mental strain. It was then the full significance of the deeds of these men came to my mind. It was then that I felt a tingle of pride for having a crew that could overcome such great obstacles—rescuing not only 32 men but themselves as well in a sea from which few crews would ever have emerged triumphant.

The water was so rough that even the thought of raising the lifeboat could not be entertained. I again wish to express publicly my thanks and appreciation to my officers and men for their assistance. Their courage and ability should give our people something to think about and make them proud of the men in the American Merchant Marine. They are not looking for rewards, but if any recognition is given to the men of the America it should go to the lifeboat crew in charge of one of the most gallant young officers with whom I have ever been associated—Harry Manning.

THIS MARVELOUS AGE!

By John Cassel

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, March 21.—A force of carpenters are at the work of demolishing the garage and shed adjacent to the Colange corner store. On its site will rise a larger and up-to-date building with housing facilities for four automobiles and shed room. On the second floor the space will be utilized for storage. Mr. Colange is also having the store rewired for the hook-up to the electric line.

Claude Bell, popular garage man, is seen driving a Durant demonstrator, which is receiving many favorable comments. Fred DeWitt of Kingston, the well known fish and game inspector, was a caller here recently.

John Bell, the well known Broadhead carpenter, is employed by William Colange.

C. H. Weidner, of the Hickory Hill poultry farm, made a truck load express shipment of eggs on Monday.

Dewey Quick and Mr. Krom of Atwood were visitors on Tuesday. Julian Eckert is engaged in hauling firewood for Ernest Constable and William Burgher.

The spring work at road repairing has been started at Watson Hollow. Ernestene and Irving Hesley are recuperating from their recent operations.

The busy hum of the sawmill is again heard. Messrs. Davis and Hesley having commenced sawing on Tuesday.

Mrs. Condon recently entertained pleasant callers.

The following out-of-town guests were entertained on Saturday and Sunday last at the home of Judge and Mrs. F. L. Weidner: Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Vogt of Binghamton, N. Y., also Dr. M. J. Vogt of Grand Gorge, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. W. Van Bramer and Mr. and Mrs. George Van Bramer of Saugerties.

Lauren Hesley has traded in his 1928 Chevrolet truck in the purchase of one of the six cylinder models, equipped with automatic lift dump body and dual rear tires. The deal was consummated through the Ashokan Chevrolet agency.

The weather at this writing bears all the marking of an early spring as the snow is gone and the birds are singing; but one never can tell as March isn't over yet by any means.

Judge Weidner reports a successful maple season, he having made about 80 gallons to date.

Charles Barber and son are engaged with the splitting of firewood. Rumor is to the effect that the New York Central will take over the Ulster and Delaware Railroad on April first.

The condition of Mrs. Orville Barber is very critical and it is said but little hopes are felt for her recovery.

That which may be of interest is the fact that Edward W. Winne, a former pastor of the Baptist Church, is engaged in the business of repairing furniture in Walden, N. Y., in which trade he is said to be an expert.

William Jordan of Broadhead was a local caller on Tuesday.

Edward Avery of Maple Dell Farm made a business trip on Tuesday to Tongore.

Shepard Bell is recovering from his cold and is able to be about visiting among his neighbors.

Supplants Steel Wool

Steel wool is said to have been side-tracked in many of its fields of usefulness by the invention of a somewhat similar nature in which copper is used instead of steel. The mass is said to be as soft as a sponge, and has a marvelous ability for cleaning pots and pans in the kitchen and other metal surfaces which have become rusted or otherwise incrustated. The copper is said to be absolutely scratchless.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, March 21 (A).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets.)—Florida strawberry prices tended upward on local wholesale sections today, particularly on fancy offerings. Demand as a whole, however, was moderate. Fresh receipts were light but moderate supplies were carried over from yesterday. Sales on best strawberries were reported at 40-45 cents a quart. Occasionally some strictly fancy reached as high as 50 cents. Poor to ordinary sold at 15-30 cents.

Last week Florida started 203 carloads of strawberries to consuming centers against 64 in the corresponding 1928 week. Supplies of western New York old crop white Danish cabbage were limited. Demand was equally light and in bulk was transacted at $50-$55, occasionally $60 per ton. On the same date one year ago state cabbage sold at $20-$25.

New York state carlot cabbage shipments to March 18 totaled 8,447 cars, compared with 13,542 for the same 1928 period. The market on Texas spinach was rather dull, but price changes were few and small. Demand was slow and bushel baskets of curly Savoy peddled out at 65-90 cents. Limited receipts of Florida new crop potatoes resulted in a firmer market. Demand was only moderate. Barrels of No. 1 Spaulding Rose potatoes brought $7-$8. A trifle better feeling was noted on old crop potatoes. Trading was fairly good and prices averaged a shade higher. Supplies were moderate. Maine Green Mountains in bulk jobbed out from $2-$2.50, principally $2.25-$2.40 per 180 pounds.

Last week old crop potato shipments for the entire country amounted to 5,232 cars. New stock filled sales of extra fancy were reported as high as $2.75. Offgrade ranged from $1-$1.75.

Florida tomato prices further strengthened. Trading was fairly active and prices were firmer, especially on fine quality. Carriers of six four-quart baskets of the fancy pack changed hands at $4-$5.25 and the choice pack $2.75-$3.

The Peer of Time

YOUR most precious possession must be spent the instant that it is gained. Your daily race with Time is your most important, most crucial contest.

In the split-fraction of a moment—speed so swift that it extinguishes Time—the human voice flashes across any distance that telephone facilities have spanned.

Reaching with instant finger the far destination as well as the near, the Giant Genius of the Telephone provides today's ultimate speed.

Twelve million times a day the people of the Empire State match Time's flight with the Telephone. Twelve million times a day it helps them seize the utmost from every fleeting minute.

Time loses its terror—Time cannot conquer—if this amazing messenger is at your command in office and home.

The improvement and enlargement of telephone facilities in this state—to cost $90,000,000 in this year alone—is constantly in progress anticipating the ever-increasing demand for this vital service.

Albany—State institutions for the care and treatment of the insane, during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928, used 1,822,514 pounds of butter at a cost of $755,562.43, an average cost of 41.45 cents a pound; 115,569 dozen eggs at a cost of $247,108.66, an average cost of 21.32 cents a dozen; and 299,653 pounds of cheese at a cost of $191,242.22, an average of 63.83 cents a pound, according to the annual report of the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene.

Brookport—Workmen searching for leaks in a gas main uncovered an arched brick passageway under a heavy macadam road here. The passage was 29 feet long and four feet wide. Its origin is as yet unaccounted for by any resident.

Waterloo—The annual Finger Lake Oratory contest will be held here on March 22. Last year's contest was won by a Waterloo girl. The contest is open to speakers from Seneca, Yates and Ontario counties, and a silver cup will be presented to the school whose student is adjudged the winner.

Syracuse—Mrs. Louise Amery of Central Square boasts that she is undergoing treatment in a hospital for the first time in a century. She is planning her 101st birthday celebration in the Onondaga Hospital here.

Waterloo—Nine of ten bonds of an issue of $10,000 sold by the Waterloo town board to the First National Bank of Waterloo have been redeemed and the town has made a profit on the transaction, one of the few instances, according to Supervisor LeRoy A. McDuffie, where a bond issue has been profitable to a municipality.

Oceanside—Consolidation of virtually all flying clubs on Long Island into one organization to be known as the Long Island Flying Club is expected to take place in the near future, according to Bert Shields, president of the Sunrise Flying Club of Oceanside. Among the clubs which would be included in the amalgamation are Sunrise Flying Club; Oyster Bay Aero Club; Brooklyn Aero Club; Astoria and Queens Flying Club; Jamaica Aero Club and the Suffolk Flyers.

Moles Long Cherished as Marks of Beauty

For centuries, it would seem, moles have been considered a real mark of beauty. The truth of the matter is, of course, that some people with moles are ravishingly lovely to look at, and some are as ugly as they can be.

Wyatt, a poet and artist of the court of Henry VIII, says of Anne Boleyn, "Likewise there were said to be upon certain parts of her body small moles, incident to the clearest complexions."

Certain it is that Anne Boleyn had a lovely complexion and the courtiers of the time referred to her as "fresh and young."

Santa Teresa's three moles have come down in history and so far from being looked upon as a blemish on her beautiful face, they were considered a contribution to her beauty. The biographer leaves nothing to our imagination and tells us that "she had three moles on her left cheek which became her much—one below the bridge of the nose, another between her nose and mouth and a third below her mouth."

Skates of Bones Used in Ancient Britain

Skates were not always made of iron or steel. According to Fitzstephen's "History of England," it was customary for young men in the Twelfth century to fasten the leg bones of animals under their feet by means of thongs and slide on the ice, pushing themselves along by means of an iron-shod pole. Specimens of the primitive skates have been found from time to time in the marshy fields near London.

Just who invented skating is not known. Holland, with its extensive water surfaces, is sometimes looked upon as the birthplace of the sport. But the Twelfth-century bone implements are said to indicate that there were some followers of the sport in England before the Dutch spread it abroad in the Thirteenth century. In Twelfth-century England the skaters on bone are said to have fought at each other as in a tournament.

Rotary Father And Son Luncheon

Kingston Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Governor Clinton decided to hold a Father and Son Luncheon on April 2. Heard the glad news that its February attendance was the best in several years, greeted visitors from Staatsburgh and Wallkill and listened to a snappy address by William Burger on the subject of the H-Y, which covered the growth of high school attendance and the social and moral problems that youth presents. The speaker cited an inscription made 6000 years ago to prove that always the middle-aged have viewed with alarm the future of humanity and cited the shortcomings of the young as reasons for alarm. And the world hasn't come to smash yet.

CLEAR UP FOUR- YEAR-OLD CRIME

Roving Farm Worker Confesses to the Murder of Sweetheart.

New York.—Any writer of detective stories who could not produce a fast-selling thriller out of the real facts which surrounded the murder of Sarah Elizabeth Johnson, back in 1924, down in Middlesex county, N. J., the home of the world's best murder mysteries, is not worthy of the name.

There was love interest, an ardent, utterly passionate love interest. There were parental objections to this interest. There was a wrathful and disagreeable argument between the abject parent and the ardent swain which just preceded the murder, and there was the indignant parent who scoffed at love and drove the lover from his farm.

Then there was a cave, eerie and mysterious, way out behind the apple orchard, with a heavy stone door, and with a cavernous interior which could hide almost anything. That was the love nest, the trysting place where the lovers met and talked over the hard luck which faced them.

Killed at Trysting Place.
It was at the mouth of that cave that Sarah Elizabeth Johnson was murdered. The story was, then, that she had told the swain she loved him, that life meant nothing to her without him and all that sort of thing. But she had also told him that she dared not defy her father, and that she couldn't marry him until he had settled down, thrown aside his nomadic disposition and shown that he really, in the end, might amount to something. So he shot her, pushing the muzzle down her opened mouth.

There was never any real doubt as to who did the actual murder, but that, of course, for purposes of fiction could have been clouded just a little.

The point is that Middlesex county now has its hands on the man who, according to evidence from the war case, has confessed to facts which the county detection believe were the true ones.

A Roving Farmhand.
Harvey Lee Selhaver, when Kingston (N. J.) knew him, was a big, two-fisted worker of the soil. But he was named at heart. He blew into Princeton in April of 1924 on the brake house of a freight. Somehow he had not dropped off when the freight train was put on the branch at Princeton Junction, and he found himself in a college town, where work was scarce. For one week he worked as a gardener in the town and then started plodding through the country side.

Early in May he banged on the rear door of a rambling old farmhouse about four miles outside Kingston, which happened to be just in Middlesex county. His rap was answered by a scolding girl of sixteen who told him she would call her father.

Girl Is Popular.
This girl was Sarah Elizabeth Johnson. She was a blonde, trim and neat, with blue eyes that were constantly smiling. According to those who knew her in the village of Kingston, "Say" was vivacious, charming, and full of fun. Evidently Harvey Lee Selhaver thought so, too. In any event he took a job on Joseph A. Johnson's farm.

It was a pretty melodramatic movie setting as one could wish. The only trouble was that Harvey didn't know what restraint meant, and he had spent 32 years of life battling around, fighting farmers, but in the end getting about what he wanted, principally because of his strength.

It was late in July when Johnson first opposed the thing. He sent Sarah into the house one night and told Selhaver that he'd be fired, and fired quick. If he didn't let the girl alone. Later, when Johnson found that he had sent the girl a note, he did fire him.

Cave Was Post Office.

Now the cave enters. It really wasn't a cave but the cellar of a house that some one never got around to finish. Beams covered it, and a big stone made a perfect door. Tangled and matted bushes helped to conceal it. The girl made a practice of going out into the apple orchard, after school, and naturally roamed to the cave.

Selhaver remained in the vicinity. He left notes in the cave for "Say," and she left answers. They met there.

The girl, however, had told her father she wouldn't think of marrying Harvey. Perhaps she stuck to this resolution when she met him there. Selhaver now says that she turned him down on August 24 and he became angry. He had a revolver.

In the cave, the day the murder was discovered, were clearly defined marks which showed there had been a bitter struggle. "Say" put up a fight against the cave man, that is sure.

Evidently she opened her mouth at one time, for the revolver which killed her was probably pushed into her mouth when it was fired. She dropped dead, and Selhaver, perhaps in remorse, pulled her body out of the cave into the path which leads past it to the store at Kingston. There it was discovered within two hours.

Of course suspicion pointed to Selhaver. He became a much wanted farmhand. But he disappeared and not a word was heard from him until he walked into a Seattle police station recently and confessed to killing the girl.

Shysters Hung Around
Courts 3,500 Years Ago

Shysters hung around the courts of 3,500 years ago and made promises to "fix" cases for trembling clients just as it is alleged they do today. A tablet exhumed with others from the records of an Assyrian palace of justice that drowned through drowsy afternoons of 1,700 B. C. tells of a poor woman going to court and complaining that she had given a "government agent" one sheep as a bribe to take care of her lawsuit. He failed to keep his promise of protection and when pressed about it struck the woman. kept the sheep and compelled her to pay six minas in bronze, stating that this was an additional fee for his services. The decision of the court on her case is missing.

Source of Vanilla.
It is from the dried pods of a species of orchid, a climbing vine, native of Mexico, that we get vanilla, so much used for flavoring.

Petition to Modify Daylight Saving

Federated Council P. T. A. Officers School Children's Health is Association for Asking Common Council to Abolish Daylight Saving in May and June.

The March meeting of the Federated Council of Parent-Teacher Associations was held Wednesday afternoon at the high school.

All were reminded of the food sale to be held on Saturday, March 23, at the Rose & Gorman store, starting at 2 p. m. Mrs. William G. Newkirk is chairman of the sale.

The annual meeting and election of officers will occur in May and the council president, Mrs. A. H. Russell, reminded the presidents of the local P. T. A.'s that according to the constitution a report of their year's work would be called for from each association. Mrs. Russell also suggested that at the annual meetings of the local association the new officers be installed with a short installation ceremony and offered to give suggestions or to assist in this ceremony if desired.

It was announced that the spring conference of the Poughkeepsie District of the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers would be held in Poughkeepsie on Wednesday, June 5. Dr. Andrus, of the State Department of Health, will be one of the speakers and it is expected that P. T. A. Institute will be conducted by one of the state officers.

A Parent-Teacher Institute will be conducted at Cornell University from May 20-25. It is hoped that a number from Kingston will attend. The general topic will be "The Wise Use of Leisure Time for Children and Young People."

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers will convene in Washington, D. C. from May 4 to 11.

Honorable Mention for Flatbush.

Mrs. Russell stated that one of the clubs in this district—North Flatbush P. T. A.—received honorable mention for its health work in the minutes of the state executive held at Syracuse in January. This club has had a dental clinic for the school children and the parents are serving hot soup or cocoa at the noon hour.

Summer Round Up Work.

Mrs. Russell announced that she had appointed two new chairmen, Mrs. C. R. Eno of Red Hook, district program chairman, and Mrs. W. G. Newkirk of Kingston city, summer round up chairman. She requests each P. T. A. president to appoint a summer round up chairman and have them get in touch with Mrs. Newkirk.

A letter was read from Mrs. R. R. Vail of Troy, state summer round up chairman, urging each association to have a chairman and see that all children have a physical examination during the summer and have all physical defects corrected before starting school in the fall. Another examination should be held in the fall to see that all the children entering school are 100 per cent perfect physically.

Instructing Assemblymen.

A letter was also read from Bessie Locke, executive secretary of National Kindergarten Association, requesting the council to write instructing district assemblymen to vote for bill 1917, providing for the establishing of kindergartens in any community where the requisite number of parents petition for it. The council voted to ask the local assemblymen to back the bill.

Mrs. Russell quoted from a letter received by her from the state publicity chairman asking that local clubs refrain from giving too much publicity to money making. The object of making money is to have it to use for some special purpose in the work. It was suggested that the purpose for which the money is to be used be stressed rather than the money making.

Want Daylight Saving Modified

Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker suggested that the council petition the common council to abolish daylight saving during the months of May and June while the children are attending school as it is difficult to have children go to bed while it is light and they lose a great deal of sleep. Many non-resident children are compelled to rise at 5 a. m. in order to get to school. The council voted to send such a petition to the common council.

The president read from the National Board Book some suggestions to Parent-Teacher Associations. Parent education, liberally interpreted, is the main purpose of a parent-teacher association, according to that book. It is also suggested that national aid to the school be limited to unfilled educational activities not yet accepted as essential, that the school board cannot be expected at the time to finance, to improving the comfort and atmosphere of the school, and helping in emergencies which sometimes arise.

Something to Eat at Newburgh.

The president also told of attending and speaking at a meeting of the Newburgh High School Association where every member brought some covered dish containing something to eat, also silver, cup and paper plate. Coffee was made on a gas plate and everyone took home his own dishes. A bountiful supper was served with little trouble to anyone. This custom is followed at each meeting.

Some changes in the constitution of the council having been discussed, a committee consisting of Mrs. W. R. Anderson, Mrs. H. P. Dederick, Mrs. J. J. Whiston and Miss Margaret Cordes was appointed to meet with Mrs. Russell to further discuss the matter.

Business Girls' Mid-Week Supper

The Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. held their usual pleasant mid-week supper at the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday evening. Announcement was made that there would be a baking party on Saturday afternoon, leaving the Y. W. C. A. at 2 o'clock and making Philadelphia the destination.

The coming mid-winter conference to be held at Honesville, April 6 and 7, was talked over and also the summer plans for Camp Maquon. This coming summer an experiment is to be tried out in that the camp and the conference will operate together, making for a more united and broadening program for the two last weeks of August. Wednesday evening Miss Van Ethen gave a sort of summary or composite Y. W. C. A. business girl worked out from the answers to the questionnaire on "Leisure Time Activities" given out at one of the meetings some time ago. Sports held first place, including walking; there was a mild interest in bridge; radio was fairly popular, but a desire for travel surpassed it. Movies were quite popular and church going was fairly regular. There was a lively and very interesting discussion following the report from Miss Van Ethen.

Florida Coconut Exhibited.

In the window of the Beckwith Company on John street there is exhibited a coconut sent to Miss Elizabeth Schrowang, the manager of the Beckwith Company branch in this city, by her sister, Miss Minnie Schrowang, who has been in Florida for the winter.

Talks on Parent-Teacher Work.

In spite of the inclement weather last Friday evening a fair sized audience heard Mrs. Russell of Kingston at the North Flatbush P. T. A. meeting. In a very entertaining and helpful talk she discussed Parent-Teacher work in general and mentioned some of the high lights of the recent P. T. A. conference at Niagara. Another special feature of the meeting was a half hour of community singing, followed by a social hour during which the girls of the school served cake and cocoa.

Schubert Club Rehearsal.

The regular weekly rehearsal of the Schubert Choral Club will be held on Friday evening at the Y. W. C. A. but the time will be 7 instead of 7:30. The voice class will meet at 6:30. It is hoped that all members will be prompt at these rehearsals.

"THE SHOES that help me shop for Beauty"

An interview with Miss Margaretta Van Rensselaer Schuyler

"My work in Prof. Bernhard's studio is as fascinating as it is exacting. I have to shop for fabrics, materials and accessories to be used in the magnificent New York apartments which Prof. Bernhard is designing. That means, of course, many, many hours of careful shopping. That is why I began my search for truly comfortable shoes when first I took this position. I tried quite a few kinds. I liked some, but none of them was really ideal. But—the day I tried my first pair of Cantilevers I stopped experimenting! Cantilevers are comfortable—when I walk, when I sit, or when (as happens very often) I climb a step-ladder to drape a curtain or to arrange a portiere. . . And Cantilevers are smart-looking; they are trim and light and graceful. . .

Like Miss Schuyler, thousands of women have found that Cantilever shoes give new comfort, new grace, new poise. These shoes are designed with a true sense of chic, a true understanding of today's fashion trends. To convince yourself how smart-looking a comfortable shoe can be, come in and see the new styles on your next shopping tour.

"$50.00 for a pair of shoes . . . I've paid it!"

"At one time I had serious trouble with my feet. I was tired and worn out all the time. I had shoes made specially to order—I actually paid $50.00 for a pair. A friend of mine who lives in the same house always wears Cantilevers and sings their praises. One time I went downtown with her and I thought it could do no harm to give the shoes a trial. They were certainly much better looking than anything I was wearing at that time. The salesman told me, 'Madam, these shoes will actually be good for your feet—you will see that they will be completely comfortable.' I confess I smiled half incredulously. . .

"Well, the result is that I haven't worn anything but Cantilevers since! Cantilever shoes have given me back my pleasure in walking, in shopping in active work. Yes—I can be active again, without fatigue, without nagging foot-aches."—Miss M. CANTY

German Views on Young, Morgan

Two American Planners Are Subject of Considerable Study and Comment—Contrast Between the Two Men Apparent.

Berlin, March 21 (AP).—Seen through German eyes, Owen D. Young, pictured as "the silent man of the present generation," and J. Pierpont Morgan, the "heavyweight," presented a marked contrast of personality.

The two men who are playing so important a role in German economic history are the subject of considerable study and comment among German observers and newspaper correspondents, who draw vivid comparisons between the tall, pale, almost haggard figure of Young, in his plain blue business suit, and the more robust and "jovial" Morgan, wearing in his buttonhole the tiny red ribbon of the French Legion of Honor.

When the 14 experts are seated for the secret sessions at the table in the hall of the Hotel George V, writes the Paris correspondent of Germany, the official organ of the German Communist party, "the contrast between these two heads to everyone's eyes."

"The calmest and most silent man of the conference is its president, Owen D. Young. Anyone who did not know him would take him for a technical assistant, he holds himself at such a distance from the discussions. This American, who ranks among the most successful business men of his country, has such reserve and such self, that there is about him almost a suggestion of neutrality. His silence is so marked, it might almost seem, that it were not for the steady, direct look of his eyes.

Works for the Love of It. "He appears to work for the love of it, and any distraction is for him only an interruption. His secretary has a room next to the one he chose for himself at the Ritz, and it is said that he often dictates even during the activities of the other experts outside the meetings. At most, one only sees his tall figure silently moving through the curtains of the blue tea room, his left hand sunk deep in his pocket, his right holding a cigar or stubby little pipe.

"He works tremendously, but he works without haste. He has not a single hasty gesture. Yet he is everywhere first. Morning after morning he is the first of the members of the conference to appear in the hall of the Hotel George V. In general, the conclusion has been reached by German writers that only the most detached weighing of their country's case may be expected of Young, without any special sympathy, yet without antagonism."

Morgan More Colorful.

Morgan appears to them a much more colorful figure.

"Morgan is as full of movement as Young is still and silent," comments Germany.

Possibly, this paper suggests, the great financier deliberately tries to spread this feeling of "good fellowship" about himself, so that the other experts may forget that while they are at the conference only as representatives of their nations and governments, he is there in his own right as a "Wall Street King". Possibly, it asks, "even Morgan feels forced to be a little conciliatory when the figures go up so high in the billions?"

"At any rate," Germany concludes, "it is certain that Mr. Morgan attaches great importance to what might be called 'atmosphere'. The Legion of Honor ribbon shows that. Another marked characteristic, is that invariably, with his talking and joking, he knows how very skillfully to achieve a middle ground and hold the center of the stage among a group of divided specialists."

"Outside the meetings he seeks always to escape the whisper that follows him everywhere: 'There goes the man who can spend a million a minute.' That he should waste such valuable time on this conference is for many a guaranty of its success."

TEST RESISTANCES OF STONE AND STEEL.

Troy, N. Y., (AP).—Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute has a laboratory in which machines extract real sermons from stones and many other inanimate objects. These sermons are mostly lessons in safety, although occasionally they open a chapter on graft.

The laboratory has several rows of squat, powerful machines, done in battleship gray. They can crush with pressures more than 1,000,000 pounds, tear with the power of two locomotives pulling in opposite directions, shake with persistence enough to make something resembling cocktails out of the patterns of atoms in steel, and scour in a few minutes with the equivalent of a year's wear of city traffic on a pavement.

Here are brought some of the odd testing jobs from city governments and from great corporations. There are two boxes of granite chunks, the size of fists, that represent the before and the after of half an hour in an apparatus called the abraider. The "before" specimens are sharp of corner and rough all over, while the "after" examples are smooth and rounded. The abraider in a short time gives the equivalent of years of wear. It has been of use to city governments in revealing soft wearing qualities of stone materials that were of outwardly sturdy appearance and offered at top prices. Bricks receive a shake in the "rattler", which is virtually a stout mashing-machine, using small cannon balls in place of water. Sixty minutes demonstrates any brick's wearing qualities. Great corporations send here samples of tools which they purchase in quantities. A few pats, yanks and twists in the big machines reveal the durability which is translated into thousands of dollars saved by shrewd buying. Rods that hold great chandeliers, supports of library bookshelves, or steel building girders come here to be yanked apart or crushed. From these tests, Prof. Thomas R. Lawson, head of the department of civil engineering, computes the safety factors and sometimes discovers weakness in unexpected places.

Neatest of all the machines is one that swings a battle axe capable of clearing the sturtest helmet that knight ever wore. It smashes the metals in series, but in so doing operates a dial that registers delicately and precisely the resisting power of the broken piece.

SNOWS BREAKFAST FOOD IN HOLLYWOOD STORMS.

Omaha, Neb. (AP).—Don't shiver when you see snow in the movies; it's just breakfast food.

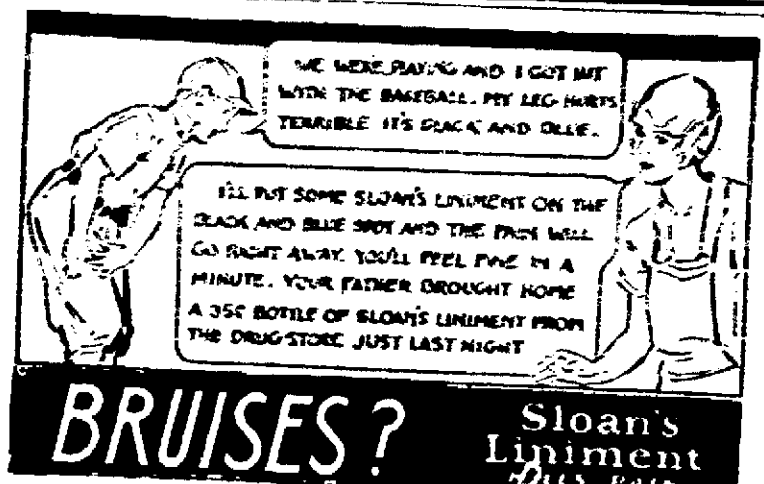

J. E. Stimmel, chief miller at Omaha cereal mills, has prepared and shipped seven carloads of "snow" to Hollywood. He makes it this way:

While corn is first made into pearly hominy. Next it is diked and cooked, and finally baked to provide crispness. The only difference between this and corn flakes is the lack of malt and sugar. Sugar discolors the flakes used for the breakfast cereal, but "snow" must be kept white.

It can be swept up and used repeatedly in a movie studio, says Stimmel.

Look on the Lookout. Luck is always on the lookout for the fellow who has a conscience, and sense enough to obey it. This, however, does not wholly satisfy the fickle goddess. The young man must be eager to find his place, and generous in the work it demands.—American Magazine.

THE MOLDED SILHOUETTE WITH LOW PLACED FULLNESS, SUMMER

New York—The molded silhouette is still the prestige. It is however frequently copied with an additional bolero, the bolero and bolero themes being recurrent throughout all worthy collections.

Having become somewhat familiar with starched cotton, we are now about to be introduced to stiffened lace. The process by which this effect is produced is immaterial but the effect justifies such drastic measures. Since there are so many peplums and other outstanding arrangements, it is natural that such fabrics as are naturally or artificially stiffened should be in demand. Taffeta remains a fixture in spring collections, and while it is usually used for evening there are interesting afternoon gowns in plain and printed taffetas. With the revival of ruffles, usually low placed, and often frayed at their edge, taffeta could not fail to be in demand. This decidedly Mid-Victorian type of trimming, was sponsored freely by Jenny who found it an effective means of elaborating the afternoon gown.

A frock built on molded lines, and softened by low placed flounces is bound to be a success this spring. It is the one outstanding silhouette of many, and the one Patou so freely endorsed. Frocks outlining the natural figure to the hip line have a surprising way of flaring or rippling from this point. Germaine Lecomte introduced a circular peplum at a very low line on a navy flat crepe street dress applauded in her recent collection.

HISTORIC OLD CHAIR IS PLACED IN MUSEUM

Montgomery, Ala., (AP).—The chair in which Jefferson Davis sat during his inauguration as president of the southern states confederacy has been placed in the Alabama state department of archives and history.

The historic piece has been in the possession of the department for 25 years, but only recently has been renovated and placed on exhibition. The chair was a gift to the state from descendants of Col. Edmund Harrison, whose home across the street from the state capitol here was utilized by President Davis as his first headquarters.

The exact position of the chair on the portico of the Harrison home during the ceremony is designated by a large metal plaque bearing the date of the inauguration, February 18, 1862.

A specially designed cabinet will house the chair in the state museum.

"PUTTING children through school is expensive and calls for greatest economy. Girls used the pretty things others have, and, thanks to Sunset Dyes, I was able to give my children more than they could have had without them."

"My daughter was getting ready to leave for her first teaching position. She had a white dress and took it to the dyers. He wanted eight dollars, so we decided to try it ourselves. We dyed it the loveliest shade of dark green and were delighted."

"If there is ever a time when Sunset Dyes are appreciated it is after death in the family. My son died just before my daughter left for her school work. I had a brown suit which I dyed black. Then I dyed my print dresses."

"I never wear anything shabby or the least faded now. Sunset Dyes makes them bright and pretty again. I dyed old silk handkerchiefs for trimming a house coat I made. I quilted the trimming and it was the prettiest house coat I ever saw."

"We make slips from our worn silk dresses and dye them to match some dress. I could go on and on but it would just be repetition. Sunset Dyes are to me almost a bank account. They keep us well dressed." From a satisfied Sunset user in Fayetteville, N. Y.

NEW PALM
New Palm, March 21—Mrs. Frank Martin of the graduating class of the New Palm Normal this June was the guest of honor at a surprise shower given her at the home of Mrs. Harold DuBois in Highland on Saturday afternoon. Games were played and Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Mary Rhodes were the prize winners. A penny hunt was held and Mrs. Martin was successful in finding it, attached to a cart full of shower gifts. Mrs. Martin was greatly surprised having thought the party was a surprise for one of the other guests. Mrs. Martin was recently married in Cornwall, and at present is doing substitute work in the Kingston schools.

Horton Abrams of Ohioville is working for Harry Kniffen. At last week's meeting of the Study Club, the discussion of social problems took the form of an inquiry about Galworthy's life and plays. A sketch of his life was read by Mrs. Carrie G. Vall. She found him characterized by sincerity and sympathy. The second paper was Mrs. Matteson's on Galworthy's plays. His plays deal with moral and social problems. Mrs. Matteson read "Loyalties" in condensed form; "Escape," the play which shows up the faults of the penal system. Both papers received the applause that everybody deserves for plunging into the stiffest course of work that the club has ever undertaken.

The final number of the Lyceum course given in the Normal School auditorium is scheduled for Monday evening, March 25. It is to be both entertaining and intellectual as it portrays the work which several organizations in the school have been carrying on during the year. The program consists of several choruses by the Senior and Junior Glee Clubs, a double trio from the Senior Club, solos, etc., assisted by the Normal School orchestra and a group from the Senior Modern Drama Class. The latter group will present "The Major and the Manure" by George Ade. In this one act play which is particularly well written and unusually humorous, for a change the men's parts will be taken by the men. These are seasoned actors and well worth seeing.

At the Dutch Arms meeting Tuesday night the men were entertained with a talk by Mr. Morris, a premier radio announcer; several selections by Perry Berago's nine-piece orchestra; an interesting talk and movie reel on coal by Mr. Forman, of the Lehigh Coal Company, and Mr. Hammond, of the Lackawanna Coal Company, and a supper in charge of Ira Steen, who was once a chef at the Delmeny, the most popular Briarcliff Manor hotel. Mr. and Mrs. James O. LeFevre and son, Ralph, were in Kingston on Tuesday.

Specialist to Give Style Talk Here Saturday

MRS. EVELYN TOBEY.

Saturday, March 27, is to be another red letter day for the women of Kingston and Ulster county. Mrs. Evelyn Tobey, head of the millinery department, Columbia Teachers' College, is to be in Kingston all day at which time she gives her famous style talk and hair dressing demonstration. The meetings will be held in the court house, beginning at 10:30.

In the forenoon, with the cooperation of hair dressers from local beauty parlors, Mrs. Tobey will turn the meeting into a first-class beauty parlor. The women present will be shown the latest and most becoming coiffures as adopted to their types. Women from the audience will be asked to volunteer as models for these demonstrations.

In the afternoon, ladies from the audience will again be asked to serve as models, at which time Mrs. Tobey will demonstrate foundation garments. It is at this time, also, that the style talk will be given.

Mrs. Tobey has just returned from Palm Beach and Havana, where she has been observing what the very elite are wearing. She brings with her a wealth of illustrative material in which she will show new fabrics, colors, line and accessories. She has many new things to discuss and study. The object of the meeting is to find what is best in clothing selection from the standpoint of economy and good taste. She will emphasize that the success of good dressing depends rather on how one wears clothes rather than how much money one spends.

This meeting is open to all the ladies of the city and county and a large attendance is expected.

Girl Scouts Council Officers

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts was held at the home of Mrs. E. H. Bogart, No. 124 Fair street, on Wednesday, March 26.

Murphy, Kingston; third deputy, Mrs. Clyde Gardiner, Saugerties; treasurer, Prof. Bruce Bennett, New Paltz; secretary, Mrs. Joseph C. Vanderveer, Kingston.

It was decided to hold the annual spring rally at the state armory the latter part of May. This rally brings together the Girl Scout troops from all over the county. There will be inspiring speakers from National Headquarters of Girl Scouts. It is expected.

A financial drive was also planned for May and it is hoped that there will be generous support of this worthy cause.

Y's Men Hear Of Convention

The Kingston Y's Men will attend the 1925 convention of the Y's Men of the United States, which will be held at the Hotel Hamilton in New York City, on Friday and Saturday evenings of March 27 and 28.

The attendance at various Y's Men conventions has been steadily increasing. The attendance at the last convention was over 1000. The Y's Men of the United States are now the largest organization of young men in the world.

The club had the pleasure of having as their special guest for the evening Police Commissioner Charles S. Rowland, first president of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, who was given a real Y's Men welcome. In responding, Mr. Rowland said that he was quite confident that the Kiwanis Club would carry off the prize in this attendance competition between the Rotary, Y's Men and Kiwanis clubs. He said he has always declared that there was plenty of room in Kingston for three live service clubs, and the flourishing condition of these three clubs testified that he had been right. He also said that the work these three service clubs were doing in Kingston was highly important and well high indispensable.

The results of the Y's Men's basketball team have been achieving was clearly brought out by Y's Men "Pop" Hinds. All the members are tremendously proud of their team and the fine record they have made for themselves. Their progress has been watched with keen interest by the club.

The club is also proud of Kingston High School basketball team and Y's Men Coach Kias was called upon by President Fred Van Deusen to explain to the men the fine manner in which this team under his able leadership has climbed to a position of having an opportunity of capturing for Kingston the New York State championship. Something that has never before been won by the Kingston High School. The men enjoyed the results of the championship of the Y's Men of the United States.

Harry Roman also took part in the contest. He was given a real Y's Men welcome. Chester R. Hall also called attention to the moving picture which the Y's Men of the United States will show for the purpose of raising money to decorate the large meeting hall opposite the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. The men planned to support this effort and had planned to illuminate the H-Y on their program.

The meeting was then turned over to the Y's Men's entertainment committee, consisting of Lester Finley, Earl McLean and Robert Brown. Lester Finley, acting as chairman, stated that the program would be devoted to the reports of the delegates to the New York State Y's Men's convention at Binghamton, and as he was one of the delegates he aptly described the impression the convention made on him, sketching briefly the high lights, saying that he would let the other delegates give the actual happenings. He called upon George Hutt, who in a most interesting manner brought before the men the inspiring message which International President Ed McJoy of Canton, Ohio, gave at the closing session of the convention, in which he stressed how rapidly the Y's Men movement was spreading, giving actual happenings to the clubs established in China, Australia, Mexico, South America and various other places throughout the world.

In closing Hutt said that each member must realize that International was made up of each individual club and that Kingston was just as vital and important to International as any club in the world. The part that Kingston played in the International depended upon each individual member.

Owing to the fact that the time limit had expired and as the members were anxious to attend the basketball games at the armory in which the Y's Men's team would play, it was decided that the reports of the other delegates would be heard next

Church Workers Plan Conference

The first meeting in the series of conferences, under the auspices of the Ulster County Sunday School Association, was held at the Fair Street Reformed Church last Monday afternoon and evening. It was well attended by local Sunday school workers. The Rev. Charles Van Tol, of Stone Ridge, president of the county association, presided.

The Rev. Walter M. Rootzger, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, was the speaker of the evening. He pointed out that Sunday school is not only a place of instruction and devotion, but also a place of worship, study, service and recreation. He went on to say, "Young people should have genuine worship experiences. We need to teach them how to pray and how to study the Bible. We can lead young people closer to Jesus Christ by helping them render social service to any who may be in need of help."

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 21 (AP).—Extremely nervous trading in today's stock market reflected the widespread uneasiness over the credit situation. Prices opened irregular, turned heavy just before midday, and then started upward in the early afternoon under the leadership of the public utilities. Trading turned dull on the rally with many small traders showing a disposition to keep out of the market until after the New York and Chicago Federal Reserve meetings were out of the way.

Call money renewed at 3 per cent. There was a moderate calling of loans during the morning but these were easily replaced by the new funds attracted here from interior and from foreign banks by the high rate. One of the most significant developments of the day was a further increase of 1/2 of 1 per cent in both the bid and asked rates on bankers' acceptances, placing them at 1/2 of 1 per cent above the rediscount rate, and increasing the likelihood of an advance in the latter.

Some professional operators are showing little concern over the possibility of a rediscount rate increase, taking the attitude that it would only bring those rates in line with outside money rates, and would not seriously affect the credit situation. Hope is still held out for further imports of gold because of the fact that several of the foreign currencies are now around the "gold import points." But any large inflow probably would be checked by higher bank rates abroad.

With many traders paying their income taxes by drawing down their balances in brokerage houses, forcing the latter to increase their borrowings, a large increase in brokers' loans today would not be surprising. There was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden demand for public utilities, although merger and stock split-up rumors involving several of the large companies have been in circulation for days. American Railway Express soared nearly 12 points and Electric Power and Light moved up 4 points to a new high above 70. American Water Works, Commonwealth Power, American and Foreign Power and American Power and Light advanced 2 1/2 to 3 points.

Some liquidation developed in the non-ferrous metal shares on fears that the recent rise in prices would lead to the increased use of substitutes.

Making Progress In Flooded Area

Montgomery, Ala., March 21 (AP).—Work of rehabilitating flooded sections of Georgia, Alabama and Florida went forward today in rapid strides. Residents of flooded towns were returning to their homes, inoculated against disease, prepared, in many instances, to begin all over again.

Red Cross and other executives have found the situation satisfactory. Disease was well under control with refugees cooperating with those in charge of relief work.

Plans for rendering financial assistance to flood victims took several courses today. Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama, favors two federal loans, one immediately for emergency relief and a second for rehabilitation. A special session of the Alabama legislature to consider an appropriation for relief work has been indicated by the governor. A popular subscription continues to grow.

The death list from the flood stood at 21 today. Residents of Caryville and River Junction, Florida, still were unable to reach their homes today although they had ample supplies on hand. Waters there were expected to begin receding within a few hours.

Levee Gives Way On Mississippi

Quincy, Ill., March 21 (AP).—The Indian Grove levee on the Mississippi river about five miles north of Quincy gave way today, pouring a great flood over 20,000 acres of farm lands.

Former Rector Makes Visit

People of old St. John's, and former friends in Kingston are looking forward with keen pleasure to the coming of Dr. Octavius Applegate as special preacher Friday evening at the church on Albany avenue.

Dr. Applegate was recently in the city for a brief hour to attend the funeral service of his beloved friend, Frederick J. R. Clarke, January 29, but few of his old friends and parishioners had an opportunity to greet him.

As rector of St. John's from 1899 to 1909 he endeared himself to a host of people by his genius for fellowship, his tenderness for the sick, and his enthusiasm for Kingston. Dr. Applegate has been rector of Christ Church, Warwick, N. Y., for many years, and his many duties in the diocese have kept him from accepting frequent invitations to visit old friends here. This year he felt compelled to decline when he was begged to be one of the Lenten preachers; but afterwards wrote: "I simply cannot decline, but must come and see my people again."

Freed on Dry Charge by Jury

Anthony Palermo of 302 East 142nd street, New York city, who was represented by John M. Cashin, was acquitted by a jury Wednesday on the charge of running a large still. The defendant was not tried under the Jones law, but he was tried under circumstances which caused the verdict to be interpreted as a sort of straw vote or test of jury sentiment on the law.

Another thing which gave the trial the effect of a test of jury sentiment was the solemnity with which Judge Coleman adjured the twelve men to lay aside any personal opinions which they might have of the prohibition law. The verdict of acquittal, which was rendered in the face of strong evidence, was brought in by the jury in ten minutes. Policeman Henry testified that he discovered Palermo at the still. Palermo admitted that he lived at the premises but denied that he was interested in the still.

State Supervision France Provides Of Expenditures National Funeral In Counties Urged

Gov. Roosevelt believes state should not collect gas tax and then turn it over to counties for the supervision of expenditures by them.

Albany, March 21. (AP)—State supervision of the expenditure of more than $57,000,000 in state aid funds by counties, including possible receipts of a gasoline tax, was urged by Governor Roosevelt in a message to the legislature today.

The governor said he felt that "public opinion and particularly the opinion of the taxpayers themselves is adverse to permitting town officers to make these expenditures."

"If," said the governor, "your honorable bodies decide to impose a new kind of tax this year, such as, for example, the gasoline tax, it is my opinion that you should not direct the state to collect this tax from its citizens and then turn it over to the counties for unsupervised expenditure by them. It is in accordance with sound principles of taxation and public finance that the proceeds of any such tax should be spent directly by the state, and that such proceeds should be used to reduce the burden of local taxation now resting upon the counties for local purposes."

Governor Roosevelt called the legislature's attention to "the fact that the state of New York is now acting as a tax collector of upward of $67,000,000 for local municipalities of the state, and added that he did not believe this collection and the accompanying system of distribution should be extended to the future."

During the day the marshal talked with Miss. Fuch, but shortly after noon she noticed that he was growing pale. She called his nurses and the marshal was taken from his lounge near an open window to his bed.

Last Sacraments Administered.

Those last minutes passed quickly. Members of the family were summoned and the Reverend Father Perducci came to administer the last sacraments to his distinguished parishioner. Dr. Daveniere arrived, but it was too late to bring the dying man back and he breathed his last at 5:50 p. m., just as the sun was setting.

Spring Is Here.

At 9:35 o'clock Wednesday night eastern standard time the sun crossed the equator and spring was officially here. Today, the first day of spring, dawned clear and cool but later the sky became overcast and there were indications of storm.

Sunday School League Results On "Y" Court

Of the three basketball games played Wednesday evening on the Y. M. C. A. court in the Sunday School League, the battle in which Trinity defeated the Presbyterian quintet was the most interesting. The final score was 35 to 24 and it required an extra period of three minutes to decide the winner. At the regular closing period the score was deadlocked at 20. In the overtime period Trinity scored one more point than the losers. In the other two games of the evening the Congregationalists overwhelmed St. John's 47 to 17 and St. James trimmed Comforters 51 to 21.

In the Trinity-Presbyterian battle the Trinity team got off to a very good start, leading at half time, 16 to 8. In the second session the Presbyterians turned the tables, overcoming the advantage and knocking the score at 21 points only to lose out in the extra period. Thomas for the losers was the leading scorer with 14 points. Markle did the best shooting for the winners, caging a total of 11 points.

In the second game of the night the Congregationalists ran away with St. John's, taking them over by a score of 47 to 17. The winners sank 22 baskets from scrimmage while the losers were able to make but six. Dawkins was the big scorer with 11 points.

St. James and Comforters had a tough battle. The first half was nip and tuck and at the end of this period the score was 20 all. In the third quarter the Comforters still kept in the race. When the last session got under way St. James, scored plenty capturing the contest, 51 to 21.

LELIVELT STARTS HIS 24TH SEASON

Skipper of Milwaukee Brewers Hopeful of Flag.

Jack Lelivelt, pilot of the Milwaukee Brewers, who has begun his twenty-fourth season in professional baseball, is rather hopeful that his charges will land a pennant this year. For the past three years Lelivelt has been leading the Green City team and he feels confident that he now has a winning combination.

Way back in 1904 a feet, strong-limbed outfielder with a keen batting eye, joined the Lake Linden club of the Copper Country league in northern Michigan, and the future that this young fellow, known as Lelivelt, raised, brought a scout from Connie Mack and the glowing phrases that this emissary sang upon his return to Philadelphia brought Jack a bring tryout with the Athletics in 1907.

It proved too big a jump and the balance of that year, and all of 1908, was spent with leading in the Tri-State league. Here he acquired the necessary polish and was the regular left fielder for Washington in '09, '10 and '11. He ranked with the best clubbers of the league over this three-year span.

The forepart of 1912 was spent with Rochester, and here again he flashed his war club with such effect that the Yankees purchased him and were pleasantly surprised when Big John crushed the apple for 358 in the 60 remaining games of the schedule.

In May of the following year, he was traded to Cleveland for Roger Peckinpaugh, one of the greatest of shortstops, and stayed with the Indians until the spring of '15, when he was sold to Kansas City in the American association.

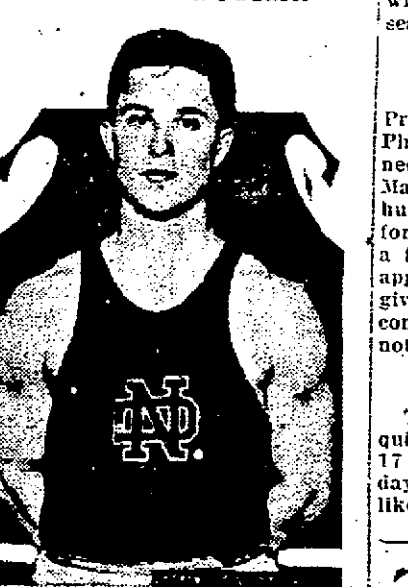

It was with the Blues that Jack started his career as a first baseman, leading the league his first season there in both fielding and hitting. After three seasons down on the Kaw, Lelivelt went to Louisville, and in '19 he was rifting the apple around as first baseman for Minneapolis.

Then came his first managerial chance—with the tail-end Omaha team in the Western league—in 1920, finishing fourth his first year out. In '21 he improved to the extent of coming in second in the flag chase, still helping his own cause with his play around first and heavy slugging.

A high salary offer from Tulsa, down in the oil country, lured Lelivelt from Omaha at the start of '22 and he rewarded his backers with a pennant. He dropped to second the next year and to third in '24.

Under Lelivelt's leadership, a chronic trailer, St. Joseph, finished fourth in '25, rounding out such an impressive five-year cycle as manager that Otto Borchert believed himself fortunate in landing him to manage the Brewers in '28.

Seeks World's Mark

Capt. Jack Elder of Notre Dame's track team is still chasing after a new world's record in the 60-yard dash. Elder equaled the mark for the ninth time in his college career in a recent dual meet between Illinois and Notre Dame.

Soccer Football Is Most Popular of All Sports

Association or, as it is known in this country, soccer football, enjoyed the greatest popularity of any branch of sport in the recent Olympic games at Amsterdam, if the financial returns constitute any criterion. A total of 240,500 spectators paid 530,000 florins to see that particular type of contest, while general athletics took second place with 130,000 spectators and a yield of 278,500 florins. The games drew a total of 663,000 paying spectators, who spent 1,425,000 florins ($470,000) on tickets, which must be a welcome echo of that vast athletic spectacle staged by Holland last summer.

Jimmy Crowley Resigns From Georgia University

Jimmy Crowley, for several years back field coach at the University of Georgia and formerly a member of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen combination, has resigned, athletic officials said. Coach Crowley said he was considering a position as head coach at another institution.

The resignation comes as no surprise, as it has been reported several times since the end of the 1928 season that Crowley would leave. Frank Thomas, University of Chattanooga coach and former Notre Dame star, has been mentioned for the place.

Highland Out for Championship

Highland Hose Company quintet, captained by Pete Bruck of this city, which now holds first place in the Mid-Hudson Valley Basketball League, will try to top the championship of the circuit by defeating Poughkeepsie tonight. Money taken in at the games, kept at Smith's Hall, Highland, will be used to give the girls a week end at camp this summer.

The Bremen team strongly out taking Friday's game, for if they drop the tilt it will mean further batting, and hard going at that, in order to take the honors. Should the Poughkeepsie team fail in their attempt they will have to meet Beacon again in order to get a crack at taking the pennant. Beacon is now stronger than it was at any time during the league season and can take the Highlanders over, say the dopesters.

Poughkeepsie at Port Ewen Tonight

The Port Ewen Knights of Pythias quintet will play its regular weekly game tonight against the fast stepping Central Hudson team of Poughkeepsie at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen. Previous to this game, scheduled for 8:30 o'clock, a preliminary will be staged between the Port Ewen Men's Club and the Congregationalists of the Senior Sunday School League. The first game will start at 7:30.

The Knights figure a hard time for tonight. The Poughkeepsie Central Hudson team is one that has made considerable progress on the court this season and contemplates on scoring over the much heralded Pythians tonight. The Bridge City aggregation will be led by "Swat" Russell, a well known member of the former Colonial baseball team, that represented this city.

Haney Will Play Third

Avon Park, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Fred Haney, coming up from Indianapolis, is to play third base for the St. Louis Cardinals in the two game series against the Philadelphia Athletics at Miami Saturday and Sunday. Manager Billy Southworth has indicated. Southworth is keeping Fred out of the lineup while he has a good look at his rookies, Selph and Charlie Wilson. Selph probably will be retained during the coming season.

Phillies Need Pitchers

Winter Haven, March 21 (AP)—Proceeding on the theory that the Phillies have about everything they need for a ball club except pitching, Manager Shotton is giving all his hurlers thorough trials and hoping for the best. Pitcher Guy Cantrell, a free agent sought by the Phillies, apparently is lost to them. He was given until yesterday to report or to consider negotiations off. He did not report.

South Rondout Wins

The South Rondout basketball quintet defeated West Park, 23 to 17 at the Port Ewen Court Wednesday evening. South Rondout would like to meet other teams.

Industrial Girls To Banquet

The Girls' Industrial Basketball League season will be brought to a close with a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, when the Artistics, who defeated Fuller's quintet for the championship of the circuit, will be awarded the much heralded Silver of Poughkeepsie. Money taken in at the games, kept at Smith's Hall, Highland, will be used to give the girls a week end at camp this summer.

The score of the game which was captured by the Artistics of Jacobsons last Thursday, was 19-8, which indicates that the contest was a hard-fought session. Approximately 175 saw the game, while many had to be refused admission because of the size of the hall.

Browns Lose To Columbus

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Three successive victories proved too much for the St. Louis Browns and yesterday they fell before the Columbus American Association club, 3 to 2. Rip Collins, getting another big league tryout, showed to good advantage, allowing four hits and two runs in five innings.

Three Kings—A "Hand" That Can't Be Beat

RUTH

VANCE

These baseball celebrities get more than exercise out of their diamond dolings.

By JAY R. VESSELS (Associated Press Sports Writer.)

New York, (AP)—When it comes to hitting home runs, striking 'em out or playing second base with emphasis on hitting ability, you have, respectively, Babe Ruth, Dizzy Vance and Rogers Hornsby. So these men, at the top of their respective departments of baseball, naturally head the list when it comes to the old pay envelope.

Dizzy Vance's successful drive on the Brooklyn treasury for a 1929 salary of $25,000 gave baseball a high salaried trio that stands out in a class by itself.

Ruth, a $70,000 beauty, stands at the peak—the highest paid player in baseball.

Hornsby, without an equal in the National League and second only to Ruth in the whole world of baseball, draws down $40,000 a year.

Which of the three will make the most from his big league baseball career?

The Bambino scarcely can lose, for, counting this year, he already has drawn down about half a million. At 35 he doubtless is good for two more years in the home run business. His present $70,000-a-year contract expires this year.

Vance certainly is no present or potential competitor of the Babe's in this total salary business. Including this year, the dazzer has drawn $110,244 for eight years' strikeout duty.

Hornsby, at 32, has a three-year advantage on Ruth when it comes to age. But that doesn't necessarily mean that he will be in the longer than George Herman, because infielders just don't last as long.

The Rujah doubtless will be able to draw on his managerial experience for many a year in the salary class.

But you cannot count out a man like Ruth, who will be sitting by a fireside capitalizing on his remarkable reputation to match income with the stars, past and present, long after his batting eye has dimmed.

Yale men decide which is best cigarette...

[Reproduced from the Yale News, Jan. 25, 1929]

OLD GOLD CIGARETTES WIN FIRST IN TESTS AT YALE

A group of Yale upper-classmen comparing the four leading cigarette brands.

In the recent cigarette test made at the University, Old Golds were chosen by the students as the best. The cigarettes were masked by black labels so that the names of the brands were concealed. Each label was numbered. This was judged to be the most sporting way of testing the merits of the four leading brands. Some 208 Yale students were asked to smoke the four disguised brands without knowing their identity.

They were merely to choose, by number, the one that was most appealing to the taste.

The News supervised the test on January 18 at various fraternity houses and in the News office.

When the votes were recorded it was discovered that Old Gold (Cigarette No. 3) had won. Old Gold was given 63 first choices, which was 11 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 2, 34 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 1, and 53 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 4.

"OLIVET TO CALVARY"

AT COMFORTER CHURCH

The cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," is to be given on Palm Sunday evening, March 21, at 7:30 by an augmented choir of twenty-five voices at the Reformed Church of the Comforter, Winkoop Place.

The soloists will be Miss Jessie M. Cowley, Mrs. George D. Logan, soprano; Mrs. Frank M. Elmendorf, Miss Helen Rifenbary, contraltos; August Franz, Paul Barnum, tenors; P. H. Carey, Milton Schiebel and Charles Broadhead, basses.

SAN JOSE MISSION FILLED WITH RELICS OF THE PAST

Time Writes History into Ornaments of Ancient Holy Structure in Texas.

San Antonio, Texas.—Those who pass before San Jose mission see only fragments of the beauty which has made it known as "the gem of missions."

Treasure seekers, neglect and time have ruined many of the elaborate ornamentations. The mission was built about 1720 and all the work was done by priests.

The delicate carvings of the famous "rose window," which has been studied by architects from all parts of the world, are said to have been made by one Hualcar as his expression of despair over an unrequited love. The legend is that Hualcar, having amassed a fortune as a conquistador, was returning to Spain to be married when he learned that his intended bride had married another. He donned the robes of a priest.

The cloisters still stand, although they are roofless. The smaller chapel at the base of the tower is intact and masses are still said there for Mexican families. On its walls hang three paintings, brought from Spain, which are so faded the subjects can scarcely be made out.

The tower is one of the most interesting parts. A spiral stairway, hewn from the trunk of a single tree, leads to the belfry. The tower collapsed some time ago, but photographs made possible the replacing of almost every stone in its proper place.

The belfry once held a carillon noted for its beautiful tone. Legend says this tone was due to gold thrown into the crucible when the bells were cast in Spain. Don Luis Angel, who was to marry Teresa, had gone to Texas, where he met death and was buried in the shadow of the tower at San Jose.

Teresa, realizing the bells would peal a requiem over his grave, walked to the crucible and threw in the golden ornaments he had given her. Only a few of the bells are left, and these are in a San Antonio museum.

Another legend about the building—that priests had buried a great treasure near it—has caused gold hunters to burrow under the foundations, and these excavations are blamed for the collapse of the roof and the tower.

San Jose is older than the missions in California.

Status of Reindeer

Meat Made Clear

Washington.—A statement on the status of reindeer meat under the federal meat inspection act by a joint committee of the Department of the Interior and the Department of Agriculture on the reindeer industry of Alaska, has been made public.

The statement is prepared to make clear to state and municipal health officers, conservation and game commissioners and the general public that reindeer are not included in the federal meat inspection act, but may be received into the United States and shipped interstate and that, when marked for identification, they may be received and handled in federally inspected plants.

House Plants Require

Soap-and-Water Baths

New York.—House plants should receive regular baths of soap and water, but it is to be noted that they differ from small boys in one important respect. The soap and water should remain on the plants two days before rinsing.

Airplanes Are Tested

for Life-Saving Work

Sydney, Australia.—A new idea in life saving has been successful at Torrigal beach here.

An airplane took up a 500-yard life line, at one of which was an inflated motor tire and at the other end an iron weight.

The plane dropped the tire near a swimmer and then dropped the dumb-bell on the beach, where rescuers were waiting to haul in the swimmer clinging to the inflated tire.

Lays Blame on Moon

for All Bad Weather

Washington.—Hurricanes, floods and in fact all abnormal weather conditions are caused by the moon.

Not only that, but it is within the engineering capacity of many countries to exercise an important control over their weather.

These two statements were made by Herbert Jannin Brown, oceanographer and noted long range weather forecaster.

Brown displayed numerous graphs and tables of historical years of abnormal weather which apparently sustain his theory. Meteorologists are almost a unit in contradicting his arguments.
